In Mystery

Stillness, under motion.

The water flows back to the sea.

Waves that crash the shoreline.

Listen to the ocean's symphony.

White sound, slows my heart down.

It calms this energy.

I ask myself, how can this beauty be.

Not by chance that I can see.

It's closer than you know.

Breathe in. Breathe out.

Every moment flows to the next, endlessly.

It's right before my eyes.

The answers that I seek,

lay shrouded in mystery.

Star shine, surrounds me.

The moon lies just above the bay.

The quiet in the dark of night,

is broken by a songbird's melody.

First light, unfolds.

Shapes and colors slowly come to view.

Another dawn's reverie.

Another wonder that I can see.

It's closer than you know.

Breathe in. Breathe out.

Every moment flows to the next, endlessly.

It's right before my eyes.

The answers that I seek, lay shrouded in mystery.

We all have our own way.

Every shape and color different yet the same.

Mine you'll hear if you're listening.

I sing of all one that I can feel.

It's closer than you know.

Breathe in. Breathe out.

Every moment flows to the next, endlessly.

And it's right before my eyes.

The answers that I seek,

lay shrouded in mystery.

They lay shrouded in mystery.
